September 27 at 1 pm
Marble Hall Auditorium A2.70.04 (3-14), Thorvaldsensvej 40, 1871
Frederiksberg C

1.00 – 1.05 pm Welcome by Head of Department, Anna Haldrup

1.05 – 1.40 pm Marianne Nissen Lund, Professor in Food Chemistry from August 2019
Title: Improvement of food quality by understanding complex chemical interaction between food components.

1.45 – 2.20 pm Poul Erik Jensen, Professor in Plant-Based Food Biochemistry from September 2019
Title: Plants and microalgae as sources of healthy food and bioproducts.

2.20 – 2.40 pm Small break where we move from the auditorium to the ground area in the Food Science Building, Rolighedsvej 26, 1958 Frederiksberg C.

2.40 – 2.55 pm The statue of Professor Thomas Riise Segelcke, one of the founding fathers of Danish dairy science, was moved to the FOOD building this summer. A small celebration speech will be given by one of the recipients of the prestigious Segelcke medal, E. Waagner Nielsen.

2.55 pm Finally, we will inaugurate our new brewery. You are invited to see the brewery and to taste our first brews(!) together with some sustainable snacks. We hope you want to stay for a while and socialise with colleagues and collaboration partners.
